RoHol
The Austrian Wood Composer

Sauna products

Original RoHol SaunaPly and SPress sauna walls have opened up new exciting dimensions in sauna construction.

With an assortment of over 100 wood species and many surface, structure and matching options on offer, we will definitely find the perfect solution when it comes to veneers or veneered boards.

SaunaPly

Original RoHol SaunaPly was especially developed with Sauna construction in mind. This panel emits less formaldehyde than solid, non-glued wood, even at high temperatures. And, considering the over 100 wood species on offer, it also offers brand new design possibilities for creating your own personal Sauna project.

SPress®

Original RoHol SPress combines the construction of the sauna interior, the insulation and the substrate in an organic composite material. The standard size of the boards are 2500 x 1250 or 2200 x 1250 mm with a lengthwise and transverse outer layer available. SPress is attainable in over 100 different high-grade timbers, either as a raw material with a rotary-cut veneer as the outer layer, or with a face veneer. It is also available in 2 different assembly variants.

- Over 100 different high-grade timbers
- SPress „Wall“ U 0,7 U-Value
- SPress „Ceiling“ U 0,4 U-Value < 0,7 W / (m²*K) and 115 mm thickness

Sauna & Spa References

The combination of different materials, especially those taken from the exceptional variety of high-grade timbers, enable unbelievable architectural effects to be achieved.

RoHol's SaunaPly and SPress sauna walls make this possible in more than 100 decorative noble woods.

Gone are the days in which saunas and heat cabins were to be found hidden away in cellars, made up out of old-fashioned spruce planks.

- Available in more than 100 decorative noble woods
- Absolutely emission free gluing
- Made by Austria
- Customised and tailor-made design
